Chapter 1

Story of the light and the darkness

Legends of the Light

In the time of the Collapse, when darkness threatened to consume all, the world stood on the brink of annihilation. From the shadows emerged the Traveler, a celestial entity of great power, offering a glimmer of hope to a world teetering on the edge of despair. With the Traveler's arrival came the Golden Age, a time of enlightenment and prosperity, as civilizations flourished under its protective aura.

However, this Golden Age did last long. As the darkness loomed ever closer, humanity built the Last City beneath the towering presence of the Traveler, a bastion of hope in a world besieged by darkness. Within its walls, brave heroes emerged, known as Guardians, blessed with the Traveler's Light and sworn to defend the Last City against the encroaching shadows.

Yet, the tranquility of the Last City was shattered by the arrival of Dominus Ghaul and his Red Legion, seeking to claim the power of the Traveler for their own. In a daring assault, Dominus Ghaul destroyed the Traveler, severing the Guardians from their connection to the Light and plunging the world into darkness.

The discoveries

During the Golden Age, humanity has developed new powers and abilities. Men and women started living longer and less diseases were detected. All the world was living in peace.

A group of human called the Ishtar Collective started doing some research on the Light and the Traveler. Some of their discoveries change the face of the world for ever, such as the ability to use the Light to manipulate the world around them. This is how the first aspect of magic appears in the world.

Few years after the creation of the group, the Ishtar Collective successfully created a copy of the Light coming from the Traveler, which they called Soteria. With this knowledge, they decided to lock down and secure this copy in a place where only a few members of the Ishtar Collective have access.

The rise of the Darkness

Clovis Bray, a human obsessed with the power of the Light, decided to infiltrate the Ishtar Collective to get access to Soteria. When he succeeded, he decided to create his own version of Soteria, with the objective of giving it to the people.

During the creation of Clarity, his own version of Soteria, Clovis Bray discovered a new entity as powerful as the Traveler. This new entity, which he called Keeper, whispers to him with some dark thoughts. Keeper influenced the creation of Clarity to his power rather than the Traveler's Light.

When Clarity was almost finished, Keeper revealed to Clovis Bray its true nature; Clarity was only here to accept the power of Darkness in order to destroy the Traveler. Clovis Bray, already under the influence of Keeper, finished Clarity before succumbing to darkness.

The Light in the present-day

Decades after the Red War, the attack of Dominus Ghaul on the Last City, humanity was starting to rise again. The Last City has been built again on the remains of the previous Last City.

Thanks to the knowledge of the Ishtar Collective, some of the humans started to acquire the power of Light again. Those humans decided to create a special force called the Guardians, as a reference to the past. Some of those Guardians became famous in the world, such as Zavala, a brave Guardian who became commander of this special force.

Those Guardians, with the power of the Light, decided to defend humanity at any cost.

Discovery of the multiverse

One of the Guardians called Osiris was specialized on trying to find the origin of the Vex, a strange species made out of metal and liquid. One of his researches brought him to Mercury, where he discovered a strange triangular gate.
